PLACES I'VE WALKED, CLIMBED...

...or rode a bicycle...

Down the aisles we went, several of us one night, down the saw dusted aisles of the Billy Sunday Tabernacle in Winona Lake, Indiana, one of the biggest, permanent, pre-Billy Graham gathering places in Midwest Christendom.

It was one of my earlier, teen-age sacrileges, I suppose, riding bikes where at one sitting 8,000 gathered in the 20s to see Sunday handstand on chairs and shout redemption or see a young Billy Graham pack in tens of thousands of teens during the '50s summer crusades, pouring out a couple of hundred words a minute at the podium. Such rapidity was hard to understand, but the emotional tempo was effective.

Climbing it was only a few years earlier up the stairs within the Washington Monument, thousands of steps up the monument lined with blocks of stone of various kinds from the various states. Most people took one of two elevators at the time. Quite a number climbed up or down, but not both ways, an idea easily discouraged by going up once. The monument at San Jacinto near Houston is said to be as high. I don't imagine too many people climb steps there either.

113-113-113

Walking along Haight Street in August of '67, in Haight-Ashbury, that section of San Francisco gone druggy, flowery mad and wondering if Billy Sunday would have gone there and why Billy Graham didn't if he didn't. The curious types of dress, mostly late-teens "freaking out" in a subculture experiment which now finds a minority in Jesus Freaks, and that is not another of my sacrileges, but what these people call themselves. The Haight-Ashbury walk is possibly as far from reality as I could go in one lifetime in this country, as far from tabernacle sawdust in Indiana, as far from a stoney and, by implication, inspirational 550-foot climb as I could imagine.

It was perhaps a fortyish climb to national inspiration, a fiftyish bike-ride before a stage of clerical inspiration and a sixtyish walk down a street of exasperation with both, pre-ambling seventyish responses to teen-age sacrilege and adult miscalculation.

ANNUAL RELAYS SET AT YOE SATURDAY

The 38th annual Cameron relays will be held Saturday, March 17, according to Yoe headcoach Ed Cauley. This year's field will include 20 schools from Class A to Class AAA.

The field event preliminaries are scheduled for 11 a.m. and the preliminaries in the running events are scheduled for 12 noon.

There will be a barbecue for all coaches and workers at 5 p.m. and the finals are scheduled at 7 p.m.

The records in the 100 yard dash, 220 yard dash, shot, and discus are in jeopardy due to the talented field of athletes represented. Trophies are to be awarded for the first place team, high point man, 440 relay, and mile relay. In addition, five girls teams will run the 440 relay and 880 relay for trophies.

Teams entered in the Cameron relays are Brenham, A&M Consolidated, La Grange, Bellville, Hearne, Mexia, Rockdale, Lockhart, Taylor, Copperas Cove, Gatesville, Lampasas, Stephen F. Austin (Bryan), Calvert, Cameron, La Vega, Marlin, Giddings, and Georgetown.

Capt. Hoffson Released

Former POW, Cameron Native On Way Home

Air Force Capt. Arthur "Tommy" Hoffson, 29, whose address is listed as Cameron and Washington, D. C., was among the 108 American prisoners of war released Wednesday at Hanoi.

Hoffson, in addition to having relatives in the Cameron area, was the copilot to Capt. William Elmo Powell of Gatesville, listed as missing in action since 1968.

Both Hoffson and Powell were in a Phantom F100 shot down August 17, 1968. Hoffson was listed as missing in action until November 1968 when the Communists announced he was a POW. Since then his parents have received letters from him.

He lived in Cameron as a small boy and his grandmother, Mrs. J. H. Thomas, and an aunt, Mrs. Emma McDermott, still live here.

His mother, Mrs. Elaine Thomas Hoffson, is formerly of Cameron and now lives in Washington, D. C. His father is a retired Air Force colonel.

Hoffson will be going to his parents in Washington when he is released for leave by the Air Force.

In 1970-71, the Yoe National Honor Society members worked closely with the League of Families of POW's and MIA's in an effort to insure the return of all prisoners. At that time Hoffson's mother came to Yoe High and talked with the students.

Hoffson was a lieutenant when he was shot down while flying in a flight of four other aircraft. Search and rescue efforts were initiated but were terminated because radio contact could not be established and they were in hostile territory.

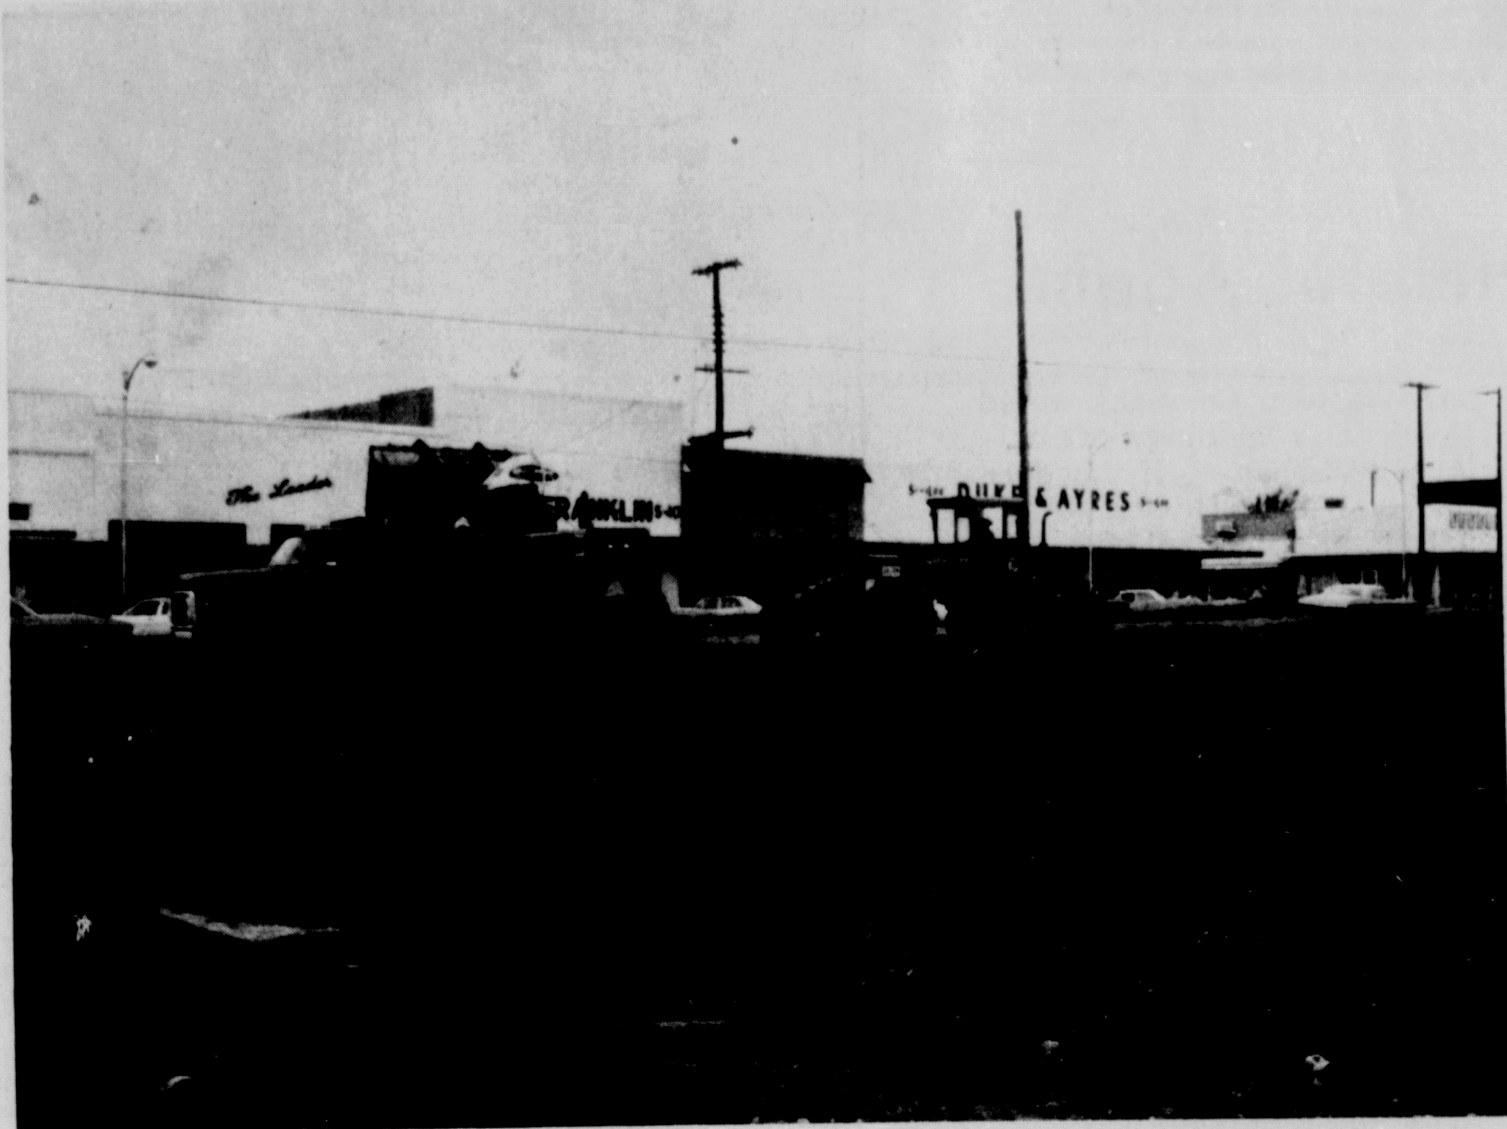

Hoffson and Powell were very close personal friends and Powell's parents are hoping Hoffson will have some information about their son.

Athletic Team To Aid Handicapped

The annual Texas football boys Lily Day for Crippled Children in Cameron will be held March 24 from 8 a.m., Coach Ed Cauley announced.

Members of Yoe High School athletic team will be on downtown streets pinning small plastic white lilies on the lapels of shoppers. Donations for the lilies go to provide treatment and service for physically handicapped children and adults in Texas.

Athletic team members conducting the sale will be identified by the Easter Seal coin canister they will be carrying.

MALL AREA is being prepared for paving and other features as city machinery grades the block and earth moving machines scoop up rubble and heavy concrete foundation. Leftovers. Wet weather is hampering progress on the downtown block, which will be a mall-parking area with fountain, trees, and benches. Sketches of the finished mall are on display at the Cameron Urban Renewal Office.

Petitions Ask Amtrak To Keep Present Route

Petitions asking Amtrak Board of Directors to continue the present route of The Texas Chief passenger train from Fort Worth of Houston have been placed in prominent places throughout Cameron.

For 90 years the passenger train has been operated from Fort Worth to Houston over the present route to Cleburne, McGregor, Temple and Brenham.

In its search for more business, the Amtrak Board has voted to change the route effective June 10 to Gainesville, Dallas, Fort Worth, Corsicana, Groesbeck and Bryan.

Cities on the present route generally agree with the addition of Gainesville and Dallas, but they point out the Cleburne, McGregor, Temple, Brenham route has 350,000 more in population than the proposed new route between Fort Worth and Houston.

For this reason, the petitions are being circulated throughout the area of the present route.

The Association of Interested Rail Passengers is urging people along the present route to sign the petitions when they see one. They are in post offices, banks, and many stores. The petitions will be collected April 15.

The petition states: "We, the undersigned, propose that the rerouting of the Texas Chief be accomplished by routing the train from Gainesville - Dallas - Fort Worth - Cleburne - McGregor - Temple - Brenham - Houston and the Inter-American should be consolidated from Fort Worth - Temple with the Texas Chief to minimize the operating costs. Under this arrangement the markets that now have service would not be eliminated. Also, Dallas could be served and included in the route of the Inter-American."

Commissioners Set Personal Property Tax

Milam County Commissioners Court meeting in regular session Monday took care of a short agenda, and set personal property tax valuations to be the same as last year.

Commissioners also granted a petition from V. T. White, county tax assessor - collector, to make a change in a property survey for tax purposes.

The bond for public weigher O. P. Organ was approved, and the county auditor was authorized to advertise for bids on material and supplies for Milam County for a six months period, bids to be opened April 9.

Upon a motion by Commissioner LaVert McKinney, commissioners voted that "since the Commissioners Courts books are open to the public, we feel that it is not necessary to mail copies of the Commissioners Courts minutes to the different news media in Milam County. The policy shall be established whereby anyone wanting information from the Court minutes shall go to the office of the County Clerk."

Alcoa Report Shows Record Sales

PITTSBURGH, Pa.

Aluminum Company of America shipped a record 1,650,000 tons of aluminum products last year, according to its 1972 Annual Report.

The 24.5 percent shipment gain over 1971 was approximately double the increase for the United States aluminum industry as a whole, shareholders were told by John D. Harper, chairman of the board and chief executive officer, and W. H. Krome George, president and chief operating officer.

Alcoa, the world's biggest aluminum producer, makes more metal in Texas than any other state. Its largest smelter is at Rockdale in Central Texas and its biggest domestic bauxite refinery is at Point Comfort on the Gulf Coast.

The annual report shows record sales and operating revenues of $1.75 billion, including $1.17 billion from sales of fabricated products and $177,600,000 from primary aluminum. Net income of $102,800,000 was 85.8 percent above the depressed earnings of 1971, "but still well below our earnings objectives," the executives said. Return on shareholders' equity increased to 7.7 percent from 4.4 percent in 1971.

"The company and its affiliates continued to operate their smelting plants below capacity, so that by year-end metal inventories were reduced and some potlines were restarted," Harper and George said.

PRICES TO IMPROVE

"Aluminum prices showed only minor improvement on some products, but there are indications prices will improve in 1973. However, even with price increases announced in late 1972 and early 1973, Alcoa's aggregate price level still was well below base prices set under Phase I of the price-control program."

They also noted that the world aluminum industry is moving toward a better balance between supply and demand, and said the outlook for 1973 "is for continued growth in the economy and in aluminum shipments." Major new markets in the automotive, building and construction, packaging and liquefied natural gas markets "are developing quite well," they said.

Alcoa's expenditures for research and development, and geological development, were a record $40,000,000 last year with more than half going for cost reduction, the report shows.

Spending for properties, plants and equipment was $140,000,000 against $199,400,000 in 1971 and a projected $190,000,000 in 1973. Major 1972 expenditures were for expansion of smelting capacity at Alcoa, Tenn., continuing expansion of Alcoa Technical Center near Pittsburgh, completion of a Jamaican alumina plant and improvement of smelting facilities at Warrick Operations in Indiana.

FUME CONTROL

The report also notes that the 1973 capital spending program provides for $31,000,000 for environmental control facilities. These include the high-efficiency Alcoa 298 process for fume control on smelter potlines.

Harper and George pointed to developments in 1972 "that will shape the future of the company for years to come."

They specifically cited Alcoa scientists and engineers who produced what promises to be the most important advance in aluminum smelting technology since discovery of the Hall process, which led to the founding of Alcoa in 1888. Patent applications have been filed on the Alcoa smelting process, the result of a 15-year, $25,000,000 research effort. The new electrolytic process is expected to cut operating costs and reduce electrical consumption by as much as 30 percent. It is free of emissions and affords a superior working environment.

Alcoa Building Industries was restructured to broaden the company's growing role as producer and suppliers of finished products, including the Alcoa Alumiframe structural system, for the building industry.

SPRING comes with a rush to Milam County, with flowering trees and shrubs brightening the landscape. Though the official date for spring is some days ahead, signs of the season are many and varied.

Humble Named Director Of Citizens National

Don Humble, Cameron attorney, was named to the board of directors of Citizens National Bank at its annual meeting of shareholders Tuesday.

Also re-elected as directors were Oxsheer Smith, Goodhue Smith Jr., John H. Davis, Niley Smith and Niley J. Smith.

Humble is a native of Milam County and is a graduate of Baylor University Law School. He has practiced law in Cameron since 1950. He is presently serving as president of the Milam County School Board and is serving as a director of the Cameron Industrial Foundation.

He is a past president of the Cameron Chamber of Commerce, the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Cameron Volunteer Fire Department. He has been involved in numerous other civic business and religious activities.

At the shareholders meeting, Goodhue Smith reported to the group that the year just ended was a record year for the bank, with an increase in deposits of more than $1,200,000 from the previous year.

The bank's board of directors met following the shareholders meeting and approved the promotion of William E. Kelm to vice president and trust officer. Kelm has been with the bank for 15 years and has devoted a large percentage of his time to trust department functions.

West Germany Helpful Again...

It's good to have friends in West Germany.

Six Common Market countries have agreed to float their currencies against the U. S. dollar in world money markets. West Germany will revalue the mark upward 3 percent against the other currencies, including the dollar.

A couple of years ago, West Germany refused to buy up dollars in the money market, in effect stabilizing the dollar through pressures applied by other Western European countries.

These recent activities will allow all the currencies to seek new values, including the dollar. Otherwise, the franc, mark and other currencies in France, Belgium, Netherlands, Luxembourg, Denmark and Western Germany would have been requiring more dollars in exchange, if the dollar had been devalued.

Britain, Ireland and Italy have weaker currencies and did not participate.

The West Germans have the strongest economy in Europe and are one of the three or four most powerful in the world, outside U. S., Russia and Japan. They could afford the move. One might say it is good business.

It is also good business for the Arab world to sell us oil right now. But a change in one or two Moslem leaders could alter that overnight.

Stable friends like West Germany are important in a changing world.

Worth Doing Without...

Cameron is lucky, compared to Burnet and Hubbard, a lot of which aren't anymore after the millions in losses to tornadoes.

The Governor declared the two communities disaster areas when six died in Hubbard. None was killed in Burnet, but damage was estimated in the millions there.

These storms were skipping around the area late last week and touched down in other areas, but with much less damage. Some roof damage was reported at Lake Belton, for example.

This is tornado season. And if we're lucky, we'll keep missing the experience which leveled these two communities. It is an experience a town can do without.

Soot, Grime Coming Off London's Public Buildings

By Ian Mackenzie

LONDON

London is slowly presenting a new bright face to the world as the soot and grime of centuries is scoured from its public buildings.

The government is currently spending up to $460,000 a year on the facelifts, with the emphasis so far mainly on the Whitehall area and Trafalgar Square.

"I envisage a continuing program with the same major impact as that of the cleaning in Whitehall," housing and construction minister Paul Channon told a questioner in the House of Commons.

"The government is doing all it can to encourage others to follow its lead," he added.

Two acts of Parliament aimed at eliminating air pollution gave the current clean-up campaign its initial impetus.

For years Londoners had suffered through killer smogs--fog made deadly by noxious pollutants hanging in the air -- and hundreds of people died as a result of respiratory diseases.

The dirt in the atmosphere stained the facades of buildings a grimy black with occasional white streaks where rain fell, while chemicals even attacked and decayed the stone.

The government passed two bills in 1956 and 1968 which designated smoke control areas and prohibited the release of dark smoke and grit into the air.

The first step towards cleaning up the buildings themselves came in 1966 with a pilot project on the banqueting hall in Whitehall, used for official banquets, receptions and concerts.

The original budget was for $46,000 dollars a year, but it quickly proved so successful that increased funds were made available.

Now Londoners are used to seeing buildings covered with a cocoon of scaffolding and canvas behind which workmen attack the dirt with water and sandblasting.

So far the major buildings and monuments which have been cleaned include a number of government offices along Whitehall, Nelson's column and the National Gallery facing it in Trafalgar Square, the Tower of London and the Queen's home at Buckingham Palace.

The stately Georgian and Regency architecture is now seen in its full glory, particularly when floodlit at night.

The government plans to start next year on a four-year cleanup of the massive British Museum, while members of Parliament are expected to vote funds for a facelift for their own Palace of Westminster where the Houses of Lords and Commons sit.

Projects are also underway elsewhere, mainly in the Scottish capital of Edinburgh where various government buildings are being cleaned.

While most of the cleanup campaign has been undertaken by the government, several private companies have followed its lead in London.

Grants of up to 85 percent can be made to local government authorities throughout the country, while private firms are offered tax relief as an incentive to help improve the urban environment.

Contract for Lifetime Care

"You get everything I own. In return, I get complete care for the rest of my life."

In effect, this was the agreement that an elderly widower made with a retirement home. And when he died a few years later, the management put in a claim for his remaining assets.

However, the man's relatives went to court with an objection.

"This was gambling, pure and simple," they argued. "No one knew how many years he would live. No one knew how much property he would have when he died. And gambling contracts are illegal."

But the court saw nothing illegal about the contract. Finding it no more of a gamble than an insurance policy, the court said the law had no objection so long as both parties understood what they were doing.

In most cases, contracts for lifetime care have been upheld as lawful and reasonable. Courts say they serve a useful purpose for those who want the security of a safe haven in their declining years.

Nor does the contract become invalid just because it happens to work out better for one side than the other.

In one case, a retirement home got a financial windfall because a relatively young resident, after paying a large membership fee, died within a few months.

In another case, a retirement home tried to back out of its contract after paying hospital expenses for an ailing resident for more than four years.

But in both cases, despite complaints, the courts ruled that a deal was a deal and had to be carried out.

Still, a contract might be invalidated by deception. One retirement home carefully avoided telling an incoming resident that he was signing over all of his property.

In this case, after the man died, his property was held to belong to his children, not to the home. The court said it could not fairly enforce an agreement on which there was no "meeting of the minds."

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

As everybody knows, Russia had a crop failure last year and consequently had to buy over a billion dollars worth of grain from the United States, and I have now found out another result of that failure.

Despite the fact the failure was caused by the weather, the Russian leaders took what for them was the logical step. They fired the Minister of Agriculture.

I don't know how such things work over there, but I have an idea the next candidate for the job, before he accepts, will be giving close study to the long-range weather forecasts.

And even then his future may be shaky. I was listening to a weather forecast out here the other day and the forecaster, in explaining why a cold front with rain didn't show up as he had predicted the day before, said "it didn't move in according to schedule."

That's one way of putting it. Whose schedule? Under that system no forecaster can ever be blamed for being wrong. All he has to do is set up a schedule and if the weather goes the other direction it's the weather's fault, not his.

But back to Russia. When she decided to buy all that grain from the U. S. she sent her buyers over here and they quietly and cannily bought up all they needed at modest prices before the world found out how bad the weather had been over there and how short their grain crop was and how much U. S. grain farmers could have gotten for it if they'd known about it.

This year, reports are that the weather again is off schedule in Russia and the grain crop again may be short. But nobody knows, and this is what gets me. You mean to say that with our far-flung and expensive C.I.A. spy system we can't find out what the weather's like in a country that big? You mean the C.I.A. can tell us how many missile-firing submarines Russia has but can't tell us if she needs a rain?

What have our men been doing, listening to Russian weather forecasters instead of looking out the window?

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Letters to the Editor

March 2, 1973

Dear Editor:

It is my great pleasure to have an opportunity of sending you this letter in the hope that you would please publish it in your valuable column.

I am a teacher of Hankook High School in Seoul which has around 3,000 students. I teach English at this school. Through my teaching career, I have noticed myself that many students of our country are very anxious to have their own pen friends in foreign countries.

They would like to have friendship with the foreign school boys and girls through communication. I think the exchanges of letters between the young in different countries would also help them to learn much better each other's country. I would also help the students in improving their writing ability. Furthermore, I surely believe that this correspondence and communication will stimulate and promote international understanding as well as the true foundation for world peace.

If any school boy or girl in your country wants to be a pen friend with a Korean school boy or girl, please inform us his or her name, address, age, sex and hobby.

We will in turn pass these information to our students and they will write the letters to their liking. We are sure that it will bring the students involved a great pleasure and a wonderful experience.

With best wishes, I remain

Yours very truly,

When costs go up, solving the problem isn't easy for TP&L

Texas Power & Light Company's costs of bringing you dependable electric service have risen drastically in recent years. And, they're still going up.

For example, TP&L uses thousands of racks ... a small but essential piece of hardware which is attached to poles as a support for power lines. In 1952, the price of a rack was only 49¢. Today, the price is $1.00.

In 1952, TP&L spent about $23 million on new generating plants, lines and other facilities needed to produce and supply electric power. In 1972, construction costs amounted to almost $110 million. This increase was brought about partly by the increasing demand for electricity and partly by inflation. In recent years, environmental and esthetic considerations have added new costs.

Power plant fuel, a major cost item to TP&L, has gone up in price more than 500% since 1952.

Texas Power & Light, and most electric utility companies, have a solid history of keeping electric rates as low as possible, consistent with good service. In fact, TP&L's average charge per kilowatt-hour in 1972 was substantially less than in 1952.

However, if reliable electric service is to be provided in the future, rising costs must eventually be passed on in the form of increased rates to the consumer.

Extension Expert Looks At Grain Situation

By Bill McCutchen

Dr. Roland D. Smith, Extension grain marketing specialist made an evaluation of the grain situation in his March report and I would like to share some of his thoughts with you.

Dr. Smith said that the 1972-73 crop year will be one remembered for years to come by grain producers, livestock feeders, and the American homemaker as an uncommon number of interdependent factors occurred almost simultaneously to help promote increased prices for major food items. A booming export demand for U. S. grain supplies coupled with delayed harvest due to extremely poor weather conditions are among the important reasons for the apparent short supply of feed grains and protein concentrates.

Smith said that massive grain purchases by the Soviet Union during the past few months are having a major impact on the U. S. grain situation for 1972-73.

Several other factors influenced increased domestic grain sorghum demands including an increase in cattle numbers, severe weather causing early and heavy supplemental, feeding, and the disappearance of wheat from livestock rations.

Dr. Smith said that in this unusual year even the cotton situation affected the overall feed picture. With a 30% increase in cottonseed output, one would anticipate an adequate supply of cottonseed meal, but the late harvest plus fuel shortages at the oil mills clouded this optimism.

These factors, according to Smith, coupled with an early need for concentrate situation in the Southwest states.

According to Smith, the short term outlook is that one should not expect any immediate turn-around in the feed and protein concentrate picture. However, recent occurrences indicate moderate change in the new few weeks.

The USDA announced in mid-December that resale loans on 1969 and 1970 from stored feed grains and 1971 warehouse stored grain will not be extended beyond May 31. This action was taken to make more grain available to help meet the strong demand.

Also range conditions are improving sharply with good underground moisture.

Dr. Smith predicts that the protein supplement situation will cause more persistent problems for livestock producers than grain supplies and grain prices.

A long term prognostication is tentative at best according to Dr. Smith. After all, he said, who at this time last year foresaw the Russian trade deal, 45 cent cattle, and the poor harvest weather conditions. A realistic look is necessary however to make plans for farm and ranch operations.

The USDA is encouraging an increase in soybean, wheat and feed grain production this year by its 1973 programs and their subsequent programs. The December 12 announcement of the 1973 feed grain program predicted a decrease of 12 million acres in set-aside acres from the 37 million of last year. An additional change in the program specifications on January 31 is planned to bring 9 million more acres into production this year.

A change in the 1973 wheat program was announced on January 10. Farmers will not have to maintain set-aside requirements for wheat to participate in the program. This action released 15 million acres for grazing or other crops.

A result of these changes could be record crops for the 1973-74 crop year. Production of this magnitude could easily put downward pressure on grain prices next harvest period.

Nevertheless, Smith says, there are reports of possible world wide drought and reduced production in 1973. There has been concern that insufficient snow cover on the Russian wheat to prevent damage from cold weather. India again may be in the market for grain as it's crops again appear to be failing. Australia harvested less than 50 percent of its expected wheat crop this past year due to drought.

If these opinions are realized, Smith says that the market could absorb any U. S. grain supplies without reducing the prices to much lower levels.

However, what will happen if the reports of world famine are unfounded? Smith says that feed grain prices could return to previous year levels in the next harvest period, a sharp reduction.

Dr. Smith suggestion is that based on the uncertainty surrounding projections for this coming year, farmers and ranchers should consider all alternatives in planning and managing their operations. They should take care not to overextend their financial positions in expectation of extremely high output prices.

He says, that it would be advisable to maintain a constant awareness of all factors that may have an effect on the grain situation and outlook.

BANKRUPTCY DOWN

Cases of nonbusiness bankruptcy filed in fiscal 1972 were down 9.6 per cent from fiscal 1971 -- Texas had 16 per 100,000 population in 1972, according to Mrs. Doris Myers, home management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service Texas A&M University.

Sweden Develops 'Silent Soldiers'

By John Chadwick

Kkovde, SWEDEN

The silence of the forest clearing in central Sweden was shattered by the crump of mines and the rattle of automatic weapons.

The convoy of military vehicles lurched to a stop and troops dived for cover. From the boulder-strewn woods, black-faced paratroopers fired at the survivors.

It was an effective bit of theater staged for the press, neutral Sweden trains seriously for the war it never wants to have to fight.

These tall and hardened young paratroopers, paid a five dollar bonus for every drop, live for days in the forests, learning how to drop, live for days in the forests, learning how to survive behind enemy lines.

But the noise of gunfire, even with blanks, is becoming rarer every day here. After years of comparatively lavish spending on its armed forces, Sweden is now having to count the cost of every bullet.

Hit by inflation like most western countries, Sweden is developing a new generation of "silent soldiers" who do much of their weapons training in electronic classrooms and seldom fire a shell.

It cost about 25 kroner (five dollars) to shoot a photograph. It costs over 300 kroner (67 dollars) a time to fire a shell," said a sergeant instructor.

In a large converted garage on the outskirts of this army garrison town, he was training raw recruits with electronic devices in place of weapons. The finger on the trigger takes a picture instead of firing a bullet.

A television screen flickered into life. The film showed an infantry platoon going into action. The enemy fired back from the woods and the attacking soldiers went to ground.

The picture was switched off and the instructor asked the recruits what action they would take now. They talked into tape-recorders slung around their shoulders and their ideas were played back in the classroom. The instructor commented, then pressed a button and the film continued to show the army's text-book version of the next attack. In another classroom, one young soldier quickly called out the numbers of a series of targets, each representing a tank at different distances. Colleagues stretched on the floor fired off recoil-less rifles and a red light showed up on the screen if they hit the mark.

A new type Japanese camera filmed training exercises, and these were played back on a television screen indoors for instant comment and discussion.

WHENCE CAME THE YELLOW ROSES

In wild roses with clear, yellow flowers, there are only six known species, all natives of Asia Minor and Persia to central Asia and Northern China.

Lindley's Rose (Rosa xanthina) from northern China was introduced into the United States by the Department of Agriculture at the comparatively recent date of April 1908.

The others have been known to Europe and America for a long period of time.

Father Hugh's rose, also from northern China, was raised in England in 1899. The Double Sulphur, or Yellow Province rose, has been known since the 17th century. The Yellow Persian was brought from Persia in 1938.

Murray-Go-Round

By Tom Murray
BAYLOR?

Dallas newspapers are writing "illegal recruiting" gossip stories about the Texas Aggies and Baylor. Emory Ballard, the popular Aggie head coach, says, "We're not guilty. Those stories are nauseating." Grant teaff, Baylor's SWC Coach-of-the Year, responded with a form of humor: "I'm sure we are under investigation. When you sign as many good football players as we've signed you should be investigated. I'm not concerned. I know how we've conducted our program."

Jim Carlen, the Texas Tech football coach, he of the glib tongue, recently dealt Oklahoma a mortal blow. West Texas Fats signed Tulsa's Ross Murphy, one of the state of Oklahoma's two Top Recruits. A 6-4, 220-pound linebacker, who runs the 100-yard dash in 10.1 seconds, Murphy was one of the nation's prized schoolboy plums. Down, near the end, Tech outrecruited Oklahoma. The University of Texas and those aggressive Texas Aggies for the young Tusan. Raider Backfield Coach Dick Rader said, "Ross was Coach Carlen's first choice of everyone we went after." Now, the Lubbock Red R's must sweat the April 5 National Letter deadline, after which he can't sign with another school. Decoded, that means Oklahoma. Those folks let few good ones get south across the river.

The University of Texas, the school where Darrell Royal has put together five consecutive SWC championships, has nevertheless come off second-best in some important recruiting battles with those hard-bargaining Oklahomans over the past four years. But, it now appears DKR's operators have zapped the Sooners a couple times where it hurts this time around. First, those Austin Fellers signed Ivy Suber, a 9.8 swivel-hipped 175-pound halfback out of Fort Worth, after the Sooners had apparently lifted him from Burnt Orange grasp. Then UT signed All-State Killeen Linebacker Jim Gresham, after Oklahoma had announced he was going North to Norman. And, now Royal signs Tyler's Ed Starkes, a speed-burning halfback, who signed a Big Eight OU Letter February 13.

Rumors are vicious. Because, as such, they don't have to be proved. Particularly unfair is the repeating of rumors, with schools and individuals named. That is Trial Without Jury in its rawest form. If you think those rumors of illegal recruiting have been limited to A&M and Baylor, you are naive. If you think players are not being purchased, you need a Keeper.

Meat Prices Continue Upward

Meat prices continue upward -- making selection and utilization all-important.

Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University, advised using cooking methods suited to the meats for best utilization.

"Despite higher beef prices, some popular steak cuts for broiling will be featured. Look for additional values on chuck roasts and steaks, round steaks, stew meat, ground beef and beef liver.

"Pork choices include Boston butt roasts, shoulder steaks, end-cut roasts and chops, pork liver, smoked picnics, hams and ham portions.

"Although their prices have increased considerably, fryer chickens remain an excellent meat choice. However, only a few features will be found on whole birds and fryer parts.

"Turkeys remain about the same, with special prices on turkey parts," Mrs. Clyatt added.

Yoemen Edge Hearne To Hold No Loss Record

By Marilyn Hawk

The Cameron Yoemen edged over Hearne 3-1 Tuesday with a home run by Michael Trdy in an extra inning of play to hold their 'no loss' record on the baseball diamond.

The first three innings were a tie with each team holding the other 0-0. In the top of the fourth Hearne scored and managed to hold that 1-0 lead for the next three innings.

In the last regular inning of play David Hornung stole home to once again tie up the game, and an extra inning resulted. In that extra inning Trdy's homer also brought George Whiteside home. Gary Thweatt was winning pitcher.

The Yoemen were held to four hits in Tuesday's game after averaging approximately 13 in the previous games this season. "This is the first time in this young season that we've had a pitcher pretty well silence our bats," said Coach Ed Cauley.

LOOK, DADDY -- The grille on the 1973 Oldsmobile 88, a plastic part for the past two years, is now made of Alcoa High-luster aluminum sheet, Alcoa, which produces more aluminum in Texas than any other state, developed the trim alloy two years ago, and it's fast becoming an auto industry standard. Special fabricating techniques used to produce the alloy's exceptional color and image clarity currently are being refined by Alcoa to develop a super-high-luster product. Alcoa's largest domestic smelter is at Rockdale, Texas, and its biggest bauxite refinery is at Point Comfort.

Ag Committee To Open Hearings On Farm Act

WASHINGTON — The House Committee on Agriculture announced today it would open hearings at 10 a.m., Tuesday, March 20, on the general farm program. Under consideration will be proposals to extend the Agricultural Act of 1970, which now is due to expire December 31, 1973.

Dates for hearings on other legislation, including a bill authorizing funds for the Food Stamp program, also were announced by the Committee. The Food Stamp hearings will be held April 9 through April 13. Existing law authorizing appropriations for the program expires June 30. Hearings on legislation extending the Food for Peace Program, popularly known as Public Law 480, will be held April 5 and 6. It expires December 31, 1973.

First witnesses scheduled to testify on general farm legislation will be officials of the Department of Agriculture. They are to appear before the Committee March 20 and 21, followed by spokesmen for general farm organizations March 27, and continue through Friday, March 30, and April 2 through April 4, with other interested parties given a chance to testify.

Committee Chairman W. R. (Bob) Poage, D-Texas, commenting on the hearings, said:

"Extension of the Agricultural Act of 1970 is vital to the welfare of the agricultural economy of the nation, and, of course, to all Americans as consumers. 'The present act is working well. It is the vehicle by which we have been able to provide food for a smaller share of family income than at any time in history.' He observed that notwithstanding recent sharp increases in food prices, Americans today are spending only 16 percent of their net disposable income for food as compared with 22 percent 20 years ago. In Europe food costs 25 percent of the family income, and in Russia approximately 50 percent.

Poage cited Agriculture Department figures showing that between 1950 and 1971 the price index of farm prices advanced only 6 percent while all commodities, including farm products, advanced 39 percent. In that same period consumer incomes advanced 163 percent. Only 40 cents of the dollar spent on food goes to the farmer; the rest goes for transportation, processing and marketing.

Previously the Committee had announced it will hold public hearings at 10 a.m., March 13 and 14 on the Poage-Nelsen compromise proposal to pending legislation which would restore the REA 2 percent direct loan program terminated by the Administration, and would vote on the proposal on March 15.

SAVINGS BOND SALES

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q - If I don't answer the revenue sharing questions on my tax form, will it delay any refund I may have coming?

A - Probably not. However, the Internal Revenue Service may correspond with you for the missing information.

Q - My tax form asks what locality I live in. What do you mean by "locality?"

A - This is the municipality -- the incorporated city, town, borough or village -- in which you live.

If you did live inside a municipality, enter its name in the space provided. If you did not, leave the space blank but check the box provided. Be sure to enter the name of your county in the space provided, and the name of your township if it is a governmental unit.

Q - My family doctor lives 20 miles away and it costs me several dollars to drive to his office, park and return. Are these expenses deductible as medical expenses?

ses?

A - Yes. If you itemize deductions, payments for travel costs to get medical care are deductible. You may deduct the amounts paid for gas, oil, parking fees, etc. but not depreciation, or deduct a standard mileage rate of 6 cents for each mile you use your car for medical purposes. When using the standard mileage rate, you may deduct parking fees and tolls in addition to the 6 cents per mile. Amounts paid for bus, taxi or plane fares, as well as for ambulance hire, also are deductible.

Remember you deduct only those medical expenses that exceed 3 percent of your adjusted gross income.

Q - Are Blue Cross-Blue Shield premiums deductible?

A - Yes. If you itemize, you may deduct one-half of the amount you paid for medical care insurance up to $150, without regard to the 3 percent limitation on medical expenses. The remainder is added to your other medical expenses and is subject to the 3 percent rule.

Q - Where can I get a copy of the official IRS tax guide?

A - IRS Publication 17, "Your Federal Income Tax," is now available at most Internal Revenue Service offices, U. S. Government Printing Office book stores and army post offices. The cost of the 1973 edition of "Your Federal Income Tax" is 75 cents.

Payments Should Be Identified

Each year the Internal Revenue Service receives many tax payments from taxpayers that cannot be credited to the proper account.

Unidentified payments delay action on the tax account because these payments are placed in a special account until they can be properly identified. A. P. Andrews, Administrative Officer of Internal Revenue, Temple, Texas, said.

Checks or money orders for payment of taxes should be attached to the bill or notice received. If a bill or notice was not received, a note should be enclosed stating what tax the payment is for, the year of the tax, and the type of tax owed. The taxpayer's name, address, zip code and correct Social Security number should be included.

Tax returns should be mailed in the special envelope provided, or addressed to: Internal Revenue Service Center, 3651 South Interregional Highway, Austin, Texas 78740.

Kubiak Offers Financing Bill

Rep. Dan Kubiak reported this week that he has introduced a bill in the House of Representatives to try to solve the problem of public school financing.

The bill calls for the Commissioner of Education to look over each district's property tax situation to see that market values are set realistically and reasonably.

The Commissioner also would make sample appraisals in 20 percent of the districts each year to see that current values are followed.

Then, based on statewide findings the commissioner would establish each district's true ability to pay a percentage of an ideal budget for operating a quality education system in that district.

The bill would also set up a statewide average for teacher salaries, which Kubiak believes will result in higher pay for teachers in many rural areas.

"The bill is far from perfect," Kubiak said, "and many changes will be made as we hammer out details, but it is, I believe, a basis by which we can comply with the court's edicts and provide quality education to every child in the state."

WE'RE CONCERNED...

One of the four basic food groups necessary for good health is the fruit and vegetable group. You and your family should have four or more servings daily, including at least one serving of a fruit or vegetable high in vitamin C and one serving of a dark green or yellow vegetable. Fruits and vegetables contain a large assortment of the essential vitamins and minerals and provide the necessary cellulose important for needed bulk in the diet. Almost all of the vitamin C and approximately half of the vitamin A needed daily is supplied by fruits and vegetables.

To retain the natural nutrients in fruits and vegetables, it is important to observe certain basic rules:

1. Select only the fruits and vegetables that look fresh and reasonably unblemished. Wilted, wrinkled, drooping or dirty produce should not be purchased.
2. Store your produce properly. Refrigeration and humidity are important to conserve freshness as well as the nutrients. Keep fruits and vegetables in covered containers or film bags to help prevent evaporation and withering.
3. Observe the three "R's" in cooking: Reduce the amount of water used; reduce the length of cooking time; reduce the amount of surface area exposed in the cooking process.

Our produce is shipped in refrigerated trucks to arrive at the store as fresh as possible. We offer a wide selection of many varieties at the lowest possible prices every day; but remember, fruits and vegetables can be obtained at lower prices when in season, and we pass these extra savings on to you. For example, grapefruit, an especially good source of vitamin C, is now in good supply and is a good buy. Cabbage is a good source of vitamin C and vitamin A. Why not try our special Corned Beef and Cabbage recipe?
